Thibault on our discussion on Uber and arbnb and other... Americans working for "labor" platforms such as Uber or TaskRabbit typically do so to offset shortfalls in earnings, and are usually poorer than those renting out assets on "capital" platforms such as Airbnb. Those drivers and taskers also tend to be more dependent on their sharing economy income compared to people on the capital side, whose earnings are often supplemental.

Uber and Airbnb really are for the wealthy and well-educated People making at least $75,000 a year are far more likely to have booked trips on Uber or rented rooms through Airbnb than lower-income Americans.

The Changing Light

Lawrence Ferlinghetti, 1919

The changing light
 at San Francisco is none of your East Coast light none of your pearly light of Paris
The light of San Francisco is a sea light an island light
And the light of fog blanketing the hills drifting in at night through the Golden Gate to lie on the city at dawn

And then the halcyon late mornings after the fog burns off and the sun paints white houses with the sea light of with sharp clean shadows making the town look like it had just been painted

But the wind comes up at four o'clock sweeping the hills

And then the veil of light of early evening

And then another scrim when the new night fog floats in

And in that vale of light the city drifts anchorless upon the
