

My Kitchen is a University

Stef Thorne, Director of Business Engagement and Entrepreneurship, University of Suffolk

- ‘A domestic zone participating in and embodying some of the most significant socio-economic, socio-technical and cultural transformations in British Culture up until the mid nineteenth century’ Pennell, Sara (2016), the birth of the English kitchen 1600 – 1850

Hello March

*Being a legend is not that difficult.
You can be a Legend by bringing change among your yesterdays and today's.*

PUBLISHED BY L. PRANG & CO. BOSTON.

THE KITCHEN

COPYRIGHT, 1876, BY L. PRANG & CO.

A pivot is a change of strategy without a change in vision

To conclude

- Universities have been accessible through kitchens
- Kitchens are still bearing witness to major socioeconomic and technical changes
- The opportunity for systemic change to how we approach education and business creation is there
- Research and policy inclusion is important if any real gains can be made from the opportunities

s.thorne@uos.ac.uk, @steftea engage@uos.ac.uk

